

With all of the artistry and creativity that lies in Athens, Georgia, all people should have the ability to have access to the art. The Gallery at Hotel Indigo and the GlassCube contains pieces from local artists in Athens and Atlanta all year round. Accessing our webapp will allow you to immerse yourself in the experience of being at the gallery and enhance it when you are there.

Working with Didi Dunphey, the art curator at the hotel, we are providing art pieces of the current gallery, archiving the previous art exhibits and creating a game that pertains to the exhibit coming in April called Finders. Users of the app, when present inside of the gallery, will be able to insert the number of the art piece to receive information about the artist through a quote, audio clip or video interview. In addition, you will have access to all of the previous art that was in the gallery and the glass cube. For the upcoming exhibit, we are creating a game called "Build Your Own." Since it is based on making art out of random objects, we are giving people the opportunity to create their own piece of art out of the unique items.

This webapp catering to the Gallery at Hotel Indigo is concentrating on maximizing the awareness of the art in Athens, allowing users to interact with the artists and giving people the opportunity to have fun and create their own piece of art.
